There was a different XAI with ticker "X" which was launched on the same day to scam people for the real XAI, Too many people bought that scam by mistake, instead of the real XAI. That made the real XAI go down on the first day.
After this initial jolt, real XAI went to .68, which was great. Today it fell (with BTC) to .58. Right now it is a great buy. It will double up very soon.

In bear that work in bull not really. Ppl won't drop airdrops till real pump volume comes and then it will be not noticable. I dropped Tia airdrop at 2$ and it hit recently 20$ as I thought the same and got caught out of guard,that it's not bear market anymore. Next time I will be able to buy it back at that price is very likely in couple years in next bear market. Got few new airdrops and not gonna sell it for at least 1 year and very likely buy more if those assets perform good

Does not matter if someone calls a coin a share, or a sh1t or whatever. The profit will remain the same. It rose to .68 yesterday. Today it fell to .58 (as BTC fell). Right now it is a great time to buy,

I mean kind of, but the other 2 layers of failure are pretty secure (Ethereum & Arbitrum) and their own layer (the 3rd one) has specific measures built in which makes it better.

If people realize the greed and abuse in this game. Why create a new platform everyday? The existing ones have not been given a chance to prove anything, yet they rush to make new ones. All about creating a token and having it out there for sale. Its true that cryptos are making millionaires, just not us its them...

big gaming has controlled both the developer and user community experience for far too long.

B3 is working on fixing this gaming isn't what it used to be

Big Gaming's mandate is to maximize profits and capture attention - not win our hearts.

There are no bold new ideas, only a steady flow of remakes, sequels, and the same tired mechanics

People can feel it: games lack soul.

Players miss that feeling they used to get gaming in their family's basement

It's time. AA games are outperforming AAA bloat this year by an order of magnitude.

AAA budgets of these massive corporate games are unsustainable. 8-12 studios spread out over the world to make one game is hugely inefficient. Mythical Man Month on steroids. 300M - 1B dollar

Hey Elon, former head of Madden football here, and left 10 yrs ago because I could no longer stand working for a massive corporation.

I've long wanted to make a game set in 2300+ where you travel back in time to assassinate people that were responsible for humanity's collapse

👉 I'm not ideologically captured, I'm creating beautiful & meaningful games celebrating the trajectory of humanity, civilization & technology instead of fascination for collapse & decay, and I'm relentlessly pursuing independence from industry predators, at great personal cost.

To build the best ai games they need to have open infrastructure and data standards. Ironically this is exactly what blockchains are - all calls done via rpc.

Agents can self generate and understand, contextualise games instantly built on this substrate.

It's blatantly obvious

xAI to Launch AI Game Studio: Making Games Great Again

Last updated 1 hour ago

Elon Musk has announced that his AI company, xAI, will venture into the gaming industry by establishing an AI game studio. This move is intended to address what Musk and others perceive as a decline in game quality due to corporate ownership and ideological influences. The studio aims to leverage AI to innovate and improve game development, though specific details on how AI will be integrated remain undisclosed.

I feel Bethesda has lost some creativity being owned by a big corporation. Imagine Skyrim 6 with Elon's AI powered NPC's and large budget... Todd Howard could be ...
